

CLAIMS

1. A method for registering and communicating between a central control authorization point and a plurality of remote location devices comprising the steps of:
 - providing a said remote location device;
 - 5 preparing said remote location device for registration;
 - registering said remote location device on said central control authorization point and transmitting an encrypted address unique to each said remote location device and storing said unique address thereon; and
 - utilizing said unique encrypted address for communication between said central control authorization point and said remote location device.
- 10 2. The method of claim 1 wherein said remote location device comprises a fluid meter.
3. The method of claim 1 wherein said remote location device comprises a tank level monitor.